

Evaluation of Student Learning

Student learning is assessed through quizzes, group work, a variety of assignments, and journal entries.

Students need to achieve a minimum of C in each unit. Students who receive 65% or less may be required to withdraw from the program.

Absence from the course for seven consecutive days will result in failure and you will have to re-register for the course at a later date.

Learners have a responsibility to prepare themselves to meet the course goals. To achieve the highest level of success, students are required to log in regularly and complete all activities and assignments.
